

First aid and emergency light, on one wall.

Balearic rules require every tourist rental to have a first-aid kit and emergency lighting. The Wingman safety station covers both in one installation: a matte-black first-aid cabinet, a rechargeable torch in a fixed wall mount beside it, and reserve stock to keep the cabinet full all season. It is how we fit our own villas.

What you get

- Matte-black metal cabinet
Lockable, wall-mounted, with shelves that keep everything in view.
- Rechargeable LED torch and wall mount
Zoom beam and battery indicator, fitted beside the cabinet.
- First fill, organised
Filled to the Spanish statutory first-aid minimum: disinfectant and antiseptic, sterile gauze, hydrophilic cotton, bandages, medical tape, plasters, scissors, tweezers and disposable gloves.
- Reserve stock
The full packs stay at the villa, so every refill is already on site.

WHAT THE RULES ASK FOR

A first-aid kit

Required by Annex 6 of Decreto 20/2015. The rule names the kit but not its contents, so we fill it to the minimum set by Spanish first-aid regulation.

Candles, torches or emergency lighting

Also required by Annex 6. A dedicated torch on a fixed mount stays where it belongs, not in a kitchen drawer.

Checked and refilled

First-aid material is replaced when used or out of date. Open shelves and reserve stock on site make that a minute's job at turnover.

WHY NOT JUST BUY A €25 KIT?

You can. The difference comes later.

Low-cost kits are compact emergency packs with small quantities. Once guests or staff use the gauze, gloves, plasters or bandages, someone has to notice, find the right replacement and restock it. Cheaper to buy, more work to keep ready. The station comes with the full packs, so the refill is already at the villa.
